

Name of Unusual Job Singular
The Job of an Arborist

Although my parents would like me to become a doctor or a lawyer, I am interested in a very different kind of job. I would like to be an arborist, a sort of doctor for trees.

Unusual Job Singular

Explain if necessary

To become an arborist, it is essential that you have a related bachelor's degree, for example in forestry, as the more you know about trees the better you will be able to do what is expected of you.

Unusual Job Singular

Qualification

Name of Unusual Job Plural

Arborists are hired by individuals or organizations to keep trees healthy and attractive. They fertilize, prune, plant, and cure trees. In other words, they are a kind of official "tree carer." They are considered experts in their field. For this reason, they need to attend workshops and seminars throughout their career in order to keep up with developments.

What is this Job entails?

Explain if necessary

I think it's perfect for me. I am interested in working in nature and taking care of things. I like trees. I am patient, methodical, and hard working. Finally, given current trends towards greener alternatives, I think there will be plenty of work for arborists in the future, so unemployment will not be a problem.

Explain if necessary

Like Related to the Job

Characteristic

Characteristic

Characteristic

Explain if necessary

Name of Unusual Job Plural

1. Name of the Job: Singular- Plural
2. Qualification Note: Most Job Require bachelor's degree
3. What is this job entails?
4. What is your interest?
5. What do you like?
6. Characteristics- Skills Note: At Least 3

An example

Reading Student Book Page 8

Take Lily Martinez, for example, she has a job that girls around the world would dream about doing—if they only knew about it! Martinez is a doll fashion designer. She remembers, “As a girl, I would design one-of-a-kind outfits for my dolls.” Her work is very similar to the work of regular fashion designers. She analyzes fashion trends, chooses fabrics, draws design sketches, and keeps a close eye on the styles of Paris and New York. Only she does all this to create clothing for 11 -inch (29-centimeter) dolls!

Ask the student to find the information required from Reading Section.
Follow the students progress for each paragraph

The Job of A Doll Fashion Designer

Although my parents would like me to become a doctor or a lawyer, I am interested in a very different kind of job. I would like to be a doll fashion designer.

To become a doll fashion designer, it is essential that you have a related bachelor's degree, for example in design, as the more you know about fashion the better you will be able to do what is expected of you.

Doll fashion designers are hired by individuals or organizations to analyze fashion trends, choose fabrics, draw design sketches, and keep a close eye on the styles of Paris and New York. In other words, they are a kind of official “doll fashion maker” They are considered experts in their field. For this reason, they need to attend workshops and seminars throughout their career in order to keep up with developments.

I think it's perfect for me. I am interested in creating clothing for dolls. I like dolls. I am creative, methodical, and hard working. Finally, given current trends towards outfits alternatives, I think there will be plenty of work for doll fashion designers in the future, so unemployment will not be a problem.

Reading Student Book Page 8

Do you have an artistic flair and an interest in science? Do you have a strong sense of taste, smell, and imagination? Then you might make an ideal flavorist. A flavorist is a person who creates natural and artificial flavorings that go into foods. Their work entails first identifying the individual chemicals found in nature. Then they recreate the flavors using different chemical combinations. Such manufactured flavors often last longer, have a stronger flavor, and smell better than flavors found in nature. These flavors can also avoid the allergens sometimes contained in natural flavors.

According to Carol Militescu, a senior flavorist, there is not one single way to create a flavor. "Different chemical combinations can make the same flavor. You might think the flavors are identical, but how you put the chemicals together makes them very different." Militescu says that to be a successful flavorist, it is essential that you "think outside the box."

Ask the student to find the information required from Reading Section.
Follow the students progress for each paragraph

The Job of A Flavorist

Although my parents would like me to become a doctor or a lawyer, I am interested in a very different kind of job. I would like to be a flavorist.

To become a flavorist it is essential that you have a related bachelor's degree, for example in chemistry, as the more you know about flavors the better you will be able to do what is expected of you.

Flavorists are hired by individuals or organizations to create natural and artificial flavorings that go into foods. In other words, they are a kind of official "flavor maker" They are considered experts in their field. For this reason, they need to attend workshops and seminars throughout their career in order to keep up with developments.

I think it's perfect for me. I am interested in creating flavors. I like recreating the flavors using different chemical combinations. I have a strong sense of taste, smell and imagination. Finally, given current trends towards artistic flair alternative, I think there will be plenty of work for flavorists in the future, so unemployment will not be a problem.