have to tell their teenage children to do their chores. Parents think their kids are irresponsible. On the other hand, teens feel their parents are always nagging and complaining.

A major problem is that parents think that teens need to do the chores on their schedule, while the teens think, "Why do I have to do it now, when I can do it later?" This usually leads to unnecessary conflict between teens and their parents.

The general questions parents usually ask about chores are the following: Should teens have them? Should teens and parents agree on a list of chores together? Should teens have freedom to decide when to do them?

One mother says, "My daughter and I make a list of chores each week. That way she can organize her time for schoolwork, housework, and free time, too." Another parent only gives his son pocket money house. He says, "No chores, no money. It makes teens responsible for earning their money, rather than just simply giving them an allowance." Some teenagers complain, "My friends don't have to do chores, so why should I?"

Normally parents expect their teenage sons and daughters to help around the house. But parents and teens have to agree on the kind of chores and when the teens have to do them. One mom's son wants to do his chores after he goes out with his friends, but then he's usually too tired. Another mother only lets her daughter see her friends after she finishes all the housework. But housework never ends! So what's the solution?

Teens and parents have to reach a compromise. There has to be common sense on both sides, don't you think?

Using pronouns and possessive adjectives to link sentences.

The pronouns and possessive adjective replace the underlined word.

Writing Corner

Subject and object pronouns and possessive adjectives help to link sentences in writing.

1. Pronouns and possessive adjectives link ideas in sentences.

Most teenagers don't want to do chores when their parents expect them to.

2. Pronouns help avoid repeating the same word or words.

One mother lets her daughter see her friends after she finishes the housework.

3. Demonstrative pronouns like this and that can refer to one word or a whole idea.

Some teenagers refuse to do their chores. This can often lead to conflict.

Example in 2 without pronouns:

One mother lets the mother's daughter see the daughter's friends after the daughter finishes the housework. This is too repetitive.

repetitive

In the example it is important to first mention the mother and the daughter before using pronouns. If the sentence started with She, the reader would not know who the person was.

I usually do my homework for all subjects at five p.m. I like homework when I understand what it's about. I can do anything if I try. The homework helps me to understand the lesson. My parents often complain that I spend too much time on the Internet. They think that I should do my homework. For me, the Internet is a way to research for school assignments. ## Language Builder

Demonstrative adjectives (this, that, these, those) can be used as pronouns when they refer to known things or people, especially if they are visible. For example, you hold up a book and say: This is mine. Demonstrative pronouns can also refer to an entire phrase. For example: John can't see very well. This is because he isn't wearing his glasses. This refers to the fact that John can't see very well.
